Yank surrenders in Libyan arms aid

From Tribune Wire Services

WASHINGTON—An aide to two former CIA agents accused of supplying explosives and terrorist training to Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy surrendered Sunday to authorities at Dulles International Airport here. Douglas M. Schlacter of Fairfax, Va., had been indicted by a federal grand jury in August on charges that he coordinated the Libyan activities of former Central Intelligence Agency agents Edwin P. Wilson and Francis E. Terpil. Schlacter is accused of overseeing the shipment of explosives to Libya and the manufacture of explosive devices in that country. He is also charged with supervising activities of current and former American military personnel enlisted to train Libyan recruits. Wilson and Terpil were indicted in April, 1980, on charges of exporting explosives, delayed-action timers, and sensitive night vision equipment to Libya.
